Hilltop Echoes 1941

Dedication

Frank O. Hurd

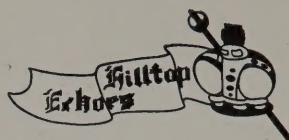

With sincere and deep appreciation for the sportsmanship, integrity, and clean living he has taught us, we, the pupils of Lodi School dedicate this issue of Hilltop Echoes to Mr. Hurd.

For thirteen years Mr. Hurd has coached our basketball team with amazing results of a total of ten county tournament and league championships. He is noted for his calmness and steadying influence to a team. His genial smile and calm attitude, win or lose, are a sight to behold and to be proud of.

Mr. Hurd serves not only in the capacity of coach but also as principal of our school. This position should give him the title of excuse-writer extraordinary, for if you have a plausible excuse for being tardy or absent Mr. Hurd will gladly write you out one of those slips with a smile and a joke accompanying it.

Now after thirteen years of grand leadership in our school and community Mr. Hurd has been engaged to teach at a larger school, an advancement well deserved by him.

We are sorry to see you leave Mr. Hurd, but we wish you all happiness and success in your new endeavors.

Case History of the Senior Class

- 1929—The present senior class entered Lodi School. There were forty bewildered infants to file into the first grade rooms under the guidance of Miss O'Hara and Miss Kline. They quickly acquired a feeling of independence and intelligence. Those members who have remained in the class for the full twelve years are Joanne Rice, Ann Bartholomai, Pauline Semai, Merle Seal, Dick Reynolds, Edith Rothstein, Edward Harrington, Carl Reed, Marcia Priest, June Mickey, Eileen Warner, Junior Marvin, Wilbur Lance, Philip Konrad, Bob Horner, Carol Burr, Bob McGarvey, Ruth Beu, Don Hastings, Ruth Fosnight, Lee Faulkner, Carol Elliott, Stanley Eicheler, Louise Decker, Edmund Crosby.
- 1930-35—New pupils detected in the class during this period were Robert Whitney, John Schneider, Hoyt Smith, Bob Bachtel, Wanda Flint, Eleanor Grannis and Mary Barsic. During this period certain members endured the usual number of bumps, bruises, and broken bones, while the teachers, Miss Pelton, Mrs. Whitney, Miss Vanasdal, Miss Wilford, Miss Edwards, Miss Blust, and Miss Eppley, administered the usual number of paddlings.
- 1935-37—Mr. Bowland placed many of us in detention hall by means of little white slips, for no reason at all of course; and Mrs. Behnke and Mr. Cochran helped to guide us in our eighth year of school. At about this time Lottie Humbel and Jane Warner joined the class.
- 1937—Many new pupils from Lafayette greeted us as we entered the freshman home rooms, which were guarded by Mrs. Behnke and Mr. Cochran. Those from Lafayette who have survived are Pauline Lance, Richard Bloch, Don Auble, Richard Waltz, Harold Ault. Class officers were Eileen Warner, president; Elizabeth Hofstetter, vice president; Joanne Rice, secretary and treasurer, and Carl Reed, student council representative.
- 1938—Guardians were Miss Garbison and Mr. Mosher. Two new members, Jean Sommer and Norma Rickel were admitted to the class. Class officers: Jane Warner, president; Dick Reynolds, vice president; Jean Sommer, secretary and treasurer; Eileen Warner, Carl Reed, student council representatives.
- 1939—An X-ray of the junior class showed that its structure was composed of Jean Sommer, president; Edward Harrington, vice president; Edith Rothstein, secretary; Eileen Warner, treasurer; Joanne Rice and Eleanor Grannis, student council representatives. Supervisors were Miss Tittle and Mr. Heim. New students were Ruth Aukerman, Dorothy Byers, Jean Smith, and Naomi Taylor. Symptoms: The junior class play, "Cheerio, My Deario," November 17; the junior-senior banquet, in the high school gymnasium.
- 1940—Guardian, Miss Mowrey, in charge of Room 21. One new student, Frances Wingard, entered the class. Officers were Jean Sommer, president; Junior Marvin, vice president; Jane Warner, secretary; Edward Harrington, treasurer; Joanne Rice and Bob McGarvey, student council representatives. Symptoms: Senior class play, "Campus Quarantine," May 16; banquet May 24; baccalaureate May 25; graduation May 29.

Senior Class Will

We, the members of the Senior Class of 1941, Lodi High School, being of sound mind (well, at least most of us are) do solemnly bequeath the following personal property to those heirs here-in stated, on this the nineteenth day of May, 1941.

"Don" Auble wills his ability to play football to Eugene Kobb.

Harold Ault bequeaths his popularity with the girls to Ronald McClain.

Ruth Aukerman gives her loud voice for classroom recitation to "Corky" George.

"Bob" Bachtel wills his supply of gum under the seventh seat in the first row of Room 22 to Howard Severns.

Frank Bagley bequeaths his habit of steady dating to Ralph Hall.

Mary Barsic gives her long tresses to Joe Leatherman.

Ann Bartholomai wills her ability to play the piano quietly to Joanne Smith.

Ruth Beu bequeaths her interest in Medina Street to Marjorie Piatt.

Richard Bloch gives his comb and dandruff to "Bob" Sewell.

Carol Burr wills her list of 4-H acquaintances to Marilyn Barnhart.

Dorothy Byers bequeaths her nursery to Clara Travis.

Edmund Crosby gives his chemical ability to James Repp.

Louise Decker wills her ability to get excuses from school to "Joe" Leatherman.

Stanley Eicheler bequeaths Doris Fetzner to "Jimmy" Mapes.

Carol Elliott gives her cute sayings in Speech Class to Alice Cook.

Lee Faulkner wills his curly hair to Mr. Mosher.

Wanda Flint bequeaths her typewriter to Gladine Tanner.

Ruth Fosnight leaves her ability to recite in Government class to any worthy Junior.

Eleanor Grannis wills her quietness to Charles Taylor.

Edward Harrington gives his sandy salt to "Joe" Warnes.

Don Hastings leaves his ability to plug a hole in the line to Jack Fetzner.

"Bob" Horner bequeaths his attraction for the girls and his love for oral recitations to "Bob" Scranton.

Lottie Mae Humble leaves her ability as a waitress to Mary Remington.

"Bud" Konrad, the great Syriac, wills his short hair to John Gyure.

Pauline Lance bequeaths her speech ability to Barbara Whitright.

Wilbur Lance gives his waves to Mr. Lindecamp.

"Mitch" Marvin leaves his ability to sleep, eat, and sing to Roderick Grimm.

"Bob" McGarvey wills his poetic ability and his whistle to Robert Charles Scranton.

June Mickey bequeaths her height to Doris Lang.

Oma Norris gives her scholastic ability to Norma Whitemeyer.

Marcia Priest leaves her imagination to Lillian Gorey and her pink Kleenex to Roy Cook.

Carl Reed wills his love for the British to Mr. Lindecamp.

"Dick" Reynolds bequeaths his ability to take girls home in two hours to anyone who has difficulty in finding the longest way.

Joanne Rice gives her fondness for "big hods" to Barbara Whitright.

Norma Rickel leaves her engagement ring to Vivian Crosby in order to save her shoe soles, the sidewalk, and wear and tear on the Post Office.

Edith Rothstein wills her seat on the bus to Mabel Reese and her ability to foretell events to Eugene Noah.

"Johnny" Schneider bequeaths his stature to Stanley Dylinski.

Merle Seal gives his "smokes" to Reginald Reed.

Pauline Semai leaves her place behind the counter in the cafeteria to Eugene Piatt.

Jean Smith wills her ability to cook rabbit to anyone of deserving character whom Mr. White can find.

Hoyt Smith bequeaths his sour disposition to Dick Young.

Jean Sommer gives her Cheshire cat grin to "Dodie" Fetzner and her ability to find her way around the Garman Road after dark to Jane Rumbaugh.

Raymond Tawse leaves $1.13 to the Lodi Hospital and his government "wards" to his sister in hopes that she will understand them better than he.

Naomi Taylor wills Albert to her sister in order to keep him in the family.

Eileen Warner bequeaths her sore ankle to Henry Unangst so that he will have a new excuse for tardiness, and the effects of her mean disposition she leaves to Patty Arnold.

Jane Warner gives her list of movie acquaintances to Dorothy Travis.

Robert Whitney wills his government book (practically new) to "Vic" Grimm in order to keep it in the same condition and to save it for posterity.

Frances Wingard leaves her ice skates to Mildred Benyak.

Class Prophecy

We, the committee, invite the Class of 1941 of Lodi High School to attend a banquet in honor of the class at the Methodist Church on Sunday, September 31, 1951, at 8:30 o'clock.
This is to be a semi-formal affair.

R. S. V. P.

What a banquet that was! The chairman, Edward White, had our names and called the roll. We responded and had a report on what we had accomplished during the last 10 years, since we had been out of school. Some of the members of the class could not be there, but there were reports on them by others who had kept in touch with them through the years.

Don Auble—His job is teaching at Lodi. (He took Miss Tittle's place.)

Ruth Aukerman—Waitress in the Brown Derby in Hollywood.

Harold Ault—He's now with the circus—water boy.

Robert Bachtel—and Mrs. in B. E. Trucking Company.

Frank Bagley—His steady dating did him no good. His life is that of a bachelor.

Ruth Beu—In the undertaking business—and from what we hear, she is the brains of the outfit.

Richard Bloch—Guess what! He is the head of the Congress Corsettiars.

Carol Burr—Mademoiselle Burr, now. She is with the Metropolitan Opera.

Dorothy Byers—and Bob in Chatham—nursery full.

Edmund Crosby—Electric Chemical Manufacturing Company in Cleveland.

Louise Decker—Teaches in the New York Art School.

Stanley Eicheler—He Co-starred with Carol Burr in her last version of Lohengrin.

Carol Elliott—We had a standing invitation to come to her day nursery in Friendsville. (Nights Extra).

Lee Faulkner—His theory on water freezing at 66 degrees below zero has almost been proved. (He is still trying.)

Wanda Flint—Keeping house for her handsome brother. Raising chickens for pin money—not feathers.

Ruth Fosnight—She is just about the oldest employee in the Ohio Farmers—due to get a raise soon.

Eleanor Grannis—Manager of Copy Boys in Los Angeles.

Edward Lee Harrington—In Ruanda Urundi helping the natives—that is in Africa, in case you have never heard of it.

Don Hastings—He is a Cleveland Rams Player—really professional.

Robert Horner—He is a missionary to Mongolia.

Lottie Humbel—She is the brains of the Allied Western Van Lines.

Bud Konrad—Ambassador to Syriak—or is it Syria?

Wilbur Lance—Vitalis advertisement model—that is a hair tonic.

Walter Marvin—Junior to us—Now has an S. O. S. station on Wrangle Island which is just north of Siberia.

McGarvey—That's Robert you know—Is Poet Laureate of 1950. He has a day nursery too, on the side.

June Mickey—Rodeo star in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Oma Norris—She co-stars with Clark Taylor—Hollywood of course.

Marcia Mae Priest—Posing as a Russian maid (or is it French) in a mansion she designed away back in 1941.

Carl Reed—His job is cleaning up after the war over in England.

Dick Reynolds—He is an airplane steward.

Joanne Rice—Assistant to a great brain specialist (Dr. Mugwunk, I believe).

Norma Rickel—And family in Pawnee.

Edith Rothstein—And family of five, in West Virginia.

Johnny Schnieder—Pharmacist in Homerville.

Merle Seal—No one seemed sure, but as near as we could find out, he is a Doctor in Mesopotamia. Where is that?.

Pauline Semai—A professional model.

Jean Smith—Married; living in Noblesville, Indiana. (Raymond's $1.13 did her no good.)

Hoyt Smith—Taxi driver in Chicago.

Jean Sommer—Social Service worker in the New York slums.

Raymond Tawse—Trying to get his $1.13 out of the hospital.

Naomi Taylor—She and Albert are to be married in June, 1960—She thought perhaps she should know him better.

Richard Waltz—He accepted that proposal—(We still wonder who she was.)

Eileen Warner—She is with Eddie.

Jane Warner—Buyer for Saks, Fifth Avenue. Drop in some time.

Robert Jackson Whitney—This young man is a retired judge on the Supreme Court Bench. (Let's see, did he say bench?)

Frances Wingard—Replaced Sonja Heinie—darn good, too.

I believe that this covers every one in the class, but if there are any additions, please let the chairman know, as we like to keep in touch with the class as they progress in the world.

- Item 44—Arline Hagans wills her love for the class treasurer to sister, Doris. (We hope she has better luck.)

Looking Into The Future

One day as I was crossing the Railroad track, I was hit by an oncoming train and was knocked unconscious. While I was in this state of mind, the future years of about 1950 came to me very clearly.

As I passed a New York library, my feet hurting as usual, I stopped to rest them. The librarian, who looked vaguely familiar, was Janice Briggs. She showed me a book, "Points of English," by a well-known author, Howard Severns. He always was an ideal student in English. After a long talk with her I started off again. Two men who turned out to be Merle Frazee and Bob Sewell were pasting advertisement posters on a large bill-board. As I glanced at the poster I noticed there were cars on it drawn by Johnny Gyure. Having decided to buy a car at the next garage, I went into a large show-room with a lot of Oldsmobiles in the window. I was surprised to find that Jack Fetzer was the owner, and that Elizabeth Grimm served as his secretary.

I had heard and read about a large farm upstate in New York owned and run by a wealthy woman. I decided to see this farm for myself, so I drove my car in and told them that I would like to see the owner. I was shown into the library where I found Gladine Tanner, the owner, lying on the davenport. She told me that she had been thrown off a horse just before I got there. The doctor, a big society doctor at that, just came in. It was Dick Young, and the nurse was Norma Whitemyer. Gladine wasn't hurt badly so after I had rested I started back to town. On the road back to New York City I had to pass an exclusive school for girls. There on the lawn was Doris Fetzer who told me that she ran this school. I learned that Doris Lang also taught French there.

Soon I was on my way again. I came to an army camp where I stopped my car along the side of the road to watch some of the maneuvers. Dick Crum, now a full-fledged commander, was having some difficulty in showing Harry Cash how to shoot straight. Then I noticed that Vera Krupar, Joann Shaw, Helen Jenny, and Marie Yoder were hostesses at the camp. After speaking to them, I was on my way again.

Arriving in New York I went to a high-class beauty shop whose supervisor was none other than Walter Curry. The girls who worked there were Doris Garberich, Eloise Lance, Fern Baker, and Arline Hagans.

Deciding I'd better get some rooms for the remainder of my stay, I stopped at a very expensive looking hotel. There was Ralph Hall the desk clerk with Ray Paukert and Merle Yergin, bell-boys and Norma Kapp, telephone girl.

In the evening I went into the dining room where a wonderful dance orchestra was playing. I thought that the haircut on the maestro looked familiar and when he turned around I recognized Joe Leatherman. His trumpet soloist was Tom Croskey Callaway, his trombone player was Roland McClain Dorsey, his clarinet player was the swing king Eugene Kobb Shaw and as vocalist he had Wee Bonnie Baker Helen Curtis. Joe's manager was none other than Dean Rowe, and his musical arrangers were Frank Lescak and Shorty Ryan. Just then a sudden news bulletin interrupted the program. Flash—The well known explorers Jack White and Harold Grimm have not been found yet. The search for them will continue. They were last seen swimming the Hellespont.

The next day I decided to go to church to hear and see this famous woman preacher under the name of Madame Turner, but it was none other than Jane Rumbaugh. The ushers of the church were Joe Pandur and Bob Dearth. Having nothing to do in the afternoon I went on a trip through the National Broadcasting Company. There was the famous tobacco auctioneer Joe Warnes and his assistant Charlie Taylor. They always were good at talking.

Next I passed a men's tailor shop owned by Forest Shriver and Joe Dylinski. Then I decided to visit the famous New York airport where I ran into a couple of my old school-mates who had taken up flying—Howard Gray and Reginald Reed. As I looked across the field I saw a group of people watching a plane take off from the runway. I asked Howard who it was and he said it was Joe Miller testing out one of the new planes that he had just designed. As I went into a restaurant to get a sandwich, I noticed that the waiters were Albert Jameyson and Paul Jenny. Just then the Southern Transport came in and I watched the people getting off. There was Mell Towslee, now a famous lawyer and his secretary George Wingard right behind him. The hostesses were Clara Travis and Audrey Taylor. James Mapes was the mechanic who was checking over the plane.

I came to finally and felt that this had been old home week.

Sophomore Class

First Row—Gerald Patterson, Duane Garberich, Ivan Frase, Andy Czaiter, Gene Bowman, Robert Addis, Dale Whitacre.

Second Row—Mable Reese, Dorothy Travis, Mary Remington, Alice Cook, Janet Bartholomai, Katherine Mihalik, Mary Bowman, Ralph Farner.

Third Row—Mr. Skurvid, Alethia Davis, Marilyn Barnhart, Doris Sommer, Marjorie Piatt, Doris Szikula, Louise Haller, Mildred Benyak, Vivian Crosby, Stanley Dylinski, Raymond Whitacre.

Fourth Row—Lillian Gorey, Margaret Aukerman, Barbara Whitright, John Snell, Leroy Harsh, James Repp, Robert Shaw, John Puie, Robert Rogers, Wayne Bensinger, Herbert Houts.

On September 9, 1941, fifty-one students gathered in room 11 to start another year. Mr. Charles Skurvid took over his duties as Sophomore Class home-room teacher.

During the year two new members, Dick Smith and Robert Rogers, joined our class and three members left to enter other schools. They were Dorothy Wakefield, Richard Smith, and Marian Yergin.

After a few days of schedule changing, worried looks, and general rushing around the class was organized and class activities were started under the guidance of the newly elected class officers:

John Snell.....	President
Ernest Gyure.....	Vice President
Doris Sommer.....	Secretary
Marjorie Piatt.....	Treasurer
Janet Bartholomai, Alethia Davis....	Student Council
Mr. Charles Skurvid.....	Adviser

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE YEAR

Sophomore Assembly Program

The Junior and Senior High pupils rocked with hilarious gaiety when they witnessed the riotous Sophomore Assembly. Everyone came prepared to be bored to death, but was surprised into laughter.

The Sophomore band opened the program. A push button program was broadcast from station L. O. D. I., sending the audience into gales of mirth. The Sophomores next presented a play entitled "The Hero Returns"—a real old-fashioned melodrama with the audience joining in with the hearty cheers, jeers, and tears.

In between acts of the melodrama, a very red nosed barbershop quartet rendered a few sweet (and some not-so-sweet) melodies. Stanley Dague played a solo on his baritone horn.

A short skit on "How Not To Buy a Bathing-suit," was given by Doris Sommer, Marjorie Piatt, and Barbara Whitright.

Thus the merry Sophomores ended their Assembly, as the students marched out holding their aching sides.

Class Party

Oh happy, happy day! Sadie Hawkins was on the way, so was the date for the Sophomore's class party and the Sophomore room was in an uproar. The boys were huddled in a corner with worried looks on their faces and the ornery gals were enjoying it all immensely. This was bad enough for the menfolk, but to top it off the gals demanded a Sadie Hawkins class party.

It was decided that everyone should come as his favorite Dogpatch character. The fatal night arrived and what a night! There were Lil' Abners, Marrin' Sams, and Daisy Maes galore. The evening was spent dancing and playing games. Following this refreshments were served. Everyone agreed that it was one of the best parties the class had ever had, and the class voted to have more like it in the future.

Basketball

This year the Reserve Squad, composed of 7 Sophomores, 4 Juniors, and 1 Senior, played excellent basketball, came through the season undefeated.

The boys may well be congratulated on their good work, and we wish them all the best of luck next year.

Bright (and Some Not So Bright) Sayings of the Year

A reverie, according to Rod Grinm, is a piece they play in the army to get the soldiers up in the morning.

Rod also thinks that the "Tennis Court Oath" was a declaration that Frenchmen couldn't play tennis in France.

Winfred McVicker asked before having his picture taken for the annual, "Is my nose shiny?"

Gerald Patterson inquiring for the same reason, "How does my hair look?"

Frank Mikac to John Snell, "I dare you to ask that guy if that's his nose, or a tomato he's eating."

Miss Mowrey, "The principal parts of the Latin verb dico, are "dico," "dicere"-----

Winfred McVicker, "Doc," (the mouse ran up the clock.)

Incidents Well Worth Noting

Ernest Gyure washing dishes at the class party. (Where did you learn, Ernie?)

The strange disappearance of Dick March's glasses. (Don't give up, Dick, there's always a chance of a mistake.)

John Snell's love for afternoon walks on spring days (any Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday will do nicely, thank you.)

Doris Sommer and her "Sprained eyebrow." (Result of a basketball game.)

Leroy Harsh's passion for skipping fourth period study hall. (It couldn't be spring fever, could it?)

Mary Bowman and her first period jokes. (Mary, where do you get those?)

This is station L. O. D. I. with the class of 1944 broadcasting.

Flash! School opened today, September 9, 1940, and sixty-seven of us mischievous freshmen scrambled to our places in Rooms 12 and 13. Surprise!! Miss Virginia Skala and Miss June Heestand, both new teachers, are our 1940-41 home room teachers.

Dash! Out of the sixty-seven members of our class seventeen have come to Lodi from Lafayette, which helped to make ours the largest class in our school this year. These new students are Blake Auble, James Baker, Virginia Benyak, Bill Carlton, Jean Carlton, Stanley Hall, Don Haller, Andrew Krupar, Olga Pidzraylo, Edward Selephchak, Merle Shaw, James Toth, Joe Toth, Robert Toth, Charles Vogt, Peggy White, and Thomas White.

More Dashes! Joanne Smith transferred from Ashland, and Gale Williamson joined us from Frazeytsburg, Ohio.

Flash! Today we elected class officers. The following students are those chosen to be our high officers: Bill Carlton, from Lafayette, president; Necia McClain, vice-president; Norma Tawse, secretary; Betty Fetzner, treasurer; David Rice, student council representative.

Crash! October 26—We held our Halloween party this afternoon with plenty of cider and doughnuts for everybody. Over forty members of our class gathered in the cafeteria for contests, folk dancing, and ghost stories.

Smash! December 13—Our yearly assembly program was presented today. Since it was so near Christmas we used the Yuletide theme. We gave a one-act play "Christmas at Piney Ridge." The cast included Lester Seward, Elizabeth Slater, Harry Zimmerman, Norma Tawse, Harold Seifert, Betty Fetzner, Mary Musser, and Tommy Whitright. Besides the play, Joanne Smith played a piano solo, "In a Persian Market." The program closed after a short Christmas-carol songfest by the entire audience.

Splash! What certain Sophomore boy on the Reserve basketball team has caught Elizabeth Slater's eye? For further details see Frankie Mikac.

Crash! That was Robert Charles Seranton landing outside of Room 13. His books went with him.

Dash! January 6—We returned to school today after two-weeks of Christmas vacation to get ready for semester exams. Miss Skala did not return with the rest of us. She needs a few extra days to get rid of the flu.

Another dash! January 8—Miss Skala has come back to take charge of Room 13.

Smash! January 23—This week is semester exam week. Headaches are prevalent. Too much work for our "brains," you know!

Clash! March 5—Today we had our pictures taken for the annual. The photographer plans to repair and continue using his camera. New ones are very expensive.

More dashes! School is nearly over. Looking over the year's enrollment we realize that five boys have quit school or transferred to another. They are Ralph Hershberger, Sam Massie, Marvin Frase, Earl Peet, and Edwin Shellhorn.

Crash! Yes, Bob Seranton again. This time he made news by jumping out of his home room window as a publicity stunt! His sprained ankle repaid him well enough. (Because of a good behavior record he has been accepted into the fold of the other home room.)

Flash! May 29—Today is the last day of school for the year 1940-41. It has been a grand school year and we are all hoping to be back next year as Sophomores.

Smash! This is station L. O. D. I. signing off until this fall.

Eighth Grade

 Fourth Row—Ronald Roberts, George Gorey, Donald LeMar, Robert Sommer, Max Daniels, Duane Houston, Robeert Duck, James Underwood, Charles Remington.

Eighth Grade

September 9, 1940 found us eighth graders happily enrolled in school with one new member in the class. Our class buzzed with excitement when the new teacher, Mr. Lindecamp, entered the room.

After our class was organized, officers were elected with Allan Warnes as president, Phyllis McClain as vice president, Raymond Lemar as treasurer, Donna Sewell as secretary, and Edgar Snell as student council member.

Our first class party, a Christmas celebration, was held December 18, at the school house. We played games, had refreshments and opened our gifts. The party was closed by dancing and caroling.

The next big event of the year was our class assembly which was received with great applause. Caroline Lorenzen played a violin solo, and Mr. Lindecamp rendered a trumpet solo. Three short plays, "Samuel's Proposal," "No Peddler's Wanted," and "Reading the News," were presented. The program closed with everyone singing "America."

Later in the year our class decided a pest hunt would be interesting. Chester Aukerman was chosen as captain of the "Reds" and Richard Barnhart as captain of the "Blues." The losing side treated the winners to our last party which was held the latter part of the year.

Now we are looking forward to next year which will be important for two reasons: it will be our last year of junior high school, and our class will be enlarged by the addition of the Lafayette pupils.

Seventh Grade

Our seventh year of school began with thirty-five anxious, and some not quite so anxious, students who were greeted by Miss Conkle in Room 15. The first few days of our Junior High life seemed very complicated, with schedules and changing classes, but we soon got over our bewildered feeling and were able to find our way around the building.

We liked the idea that we were allowed to go to assemblies and have seats assigned to us there. It made us feel quite grown-up to sit across the aisle from the lofty Seniors. We gave a play for assembly entitled "Pumpkin Hill Grammar School Graduation" which included nearly the entire Seventh Grade.

In November we had a Thanksgiving party which we all enjoyed immensely. You should have seen the boys try to wink when they played "Winkum."

Lois Indoe and Donna Bachtel represented the Seventh Grade in the Spelling Contest—Donna had represented us all through the lower grades.

Seven girls from our grade joined the Junior Girl Reserves and you should have seen what they had to wear to school as part of their initiation! The girls were Marie Carr, Patty Grannis, Donna Bachtel, Marceil Jameson, Mary Jane Fetzer, Ruth Tanner and Lois Jean Indoe.

During the year two pupils withdrew—Ernest Allen and Charles Remington; and Robert Duck entered our grade.

Some of the subjects that we have studied this year are: English, Geography, Mathematics, Science, Home Economics (girls), Industrial Arts, (boys), Art, and Physical Education.

Richard Cash appeared in the Dramatic Club Christmas play, which was quite an honor for him.

The Seventh Grade boasts of having seven pupils in the band. They are: Donna Bachtel, Richard Cash, Mary Louise Clinker, Max Daniels, Mary Jane Fetzer, Marceil Jameson, and Robert Sommer. Patty Grannis is the only one from our grade in the orchestra. Pupils taking music lessons this year are: Donna Bachtel, Shirley Britton, Marie Carr, Mary Louise Clinker, Clarence Cook, Dale Cook, Max Daniels, Mary Jane Fetzer, George Gorey, Patty Grannis, Marceil Jameson, Merle McDaniel, Robert Sommer, and Ruth Tanner.

 Third Row—Bobby Neil, Charles Repp, Boyd Lance, Joe Truckovich, Lee Rice, Carl Zdelar, James Blackburn, Don Houston, Alan Krantz, Billy Manke.

Sixth Grade

We realize at the beginning of school that we were one of the smallest of the twelve grades. Eleven girls and sixteen boys entered the class in September.

Trying to take advantage of every opportunity the grade and school offered, more than one third of us took music lessons on some instrument and three of us, Robert Kaufman, Mary Jane Bartholomai, and Robert Seifert, were members of the band.

During the year we helped with two grade programs. At Christmas time the fifth and sixth grades gave "The Candle in the Window," in which Dudley Fetzer, Betty Mullet, Robert Kaufman, Robert Seifert, and Mary Jane Bartholomai took part.

The operetta, "The Cobbler and the Elves" was given with Helen March as the Cobbler's wife and Jimmy Unargst as the Leatherman, while Betty Mullet, Mary Jane Bartholomai, Dolores Gatt, Helen Barsic, Robert Taylor, John Whitacre, Tommy Leatherman, George Emerson, Robert Kaufman, Robert Seifert, James Klinec, Jeannine Ziegler, Clyde Cook, Lewis Aukerman and Dudley Fetzer sang in the chorus.

Two clubs were formed in the grade a "Hobby Club" for the girls and a School Boy Patrol for the boys. Each boy had a chance to wear a safety patrol belt and patrol the building and school ground. In the Hobby Club, each girl brought her hobby and worked on it. Sewing, reading, paper dolls, embroidering, and working out plays seemed to be the popular hobbies.

Robert Seifert and Mary Jane Bartholomai represented the grade for the County Spelling Contest.

During the year three of our class-mates withdrew: Vera Yarman moved to Lima; Beatrice Oplinger moved to Mt. Vernon, and Robert Remington moved to Seville.

Miss Blust was our teacher.

Fifth Grade

Twenty-seven pupils entered the fifth grade this year. Of this number only eight were girls. Betty Remington was the only one to withdraw from our class and no one entered during the year.

Virginia Clouse and Alan Krantz were chosen to represent the class at the annual Spelling Contest.

Those who took special music this year were Lee Rice, violin, and Robert Nell, trumpet.

The girls enjoyed their Hobby Club. Officers from our grade were: Betty Berry, secretary and Georgia Hoff, treasurer. We believe that the hobbies will become the life work of some of the girls. The most common hobbies were: books, sewing, birds, and collecting small objects. The Boys' Patrol taught the boys what it means to take responsibility. Billy Houts was chosen Captain. Every two weeks a new corps of officers would assume his duties. Jay-walkers were banished from the school zone. Attention to safety rules was brought to all pupils. Up to the time of this writing not a serious accident occurred, thanks to the Boys' Patrol.

The grade took part in a play at Christmas time entitled, "The Candle in the Window." Those who had leading parts were Eloise House, Virginia Clouse, Betty Berry, Alan Krantz and Bobby Vandemark.

Donald Houston took the part of "Dodo" in the "Gift of Myrrh" given by the Dramatic Club at Christmas time.

In the spring an operetta, "The Cobbler and the Elves" was given with Boyd Lance and Donald Houston as leading characters.

Our pupils ranged in size, in September, from Bobby Vandemark weighing fifty-six pounds to Billy Houts, one-hundred fifty-three pounds.

Miss Edwards was the teacher. She has taught in our school 14 years and we liked her very much.

Fourth Grade

First Row—Betty Travis, Ruth March, Phyllis Esselburn, Shirley Read, Patricia Arnold, Mary Ginter, Altha Bowen.
 Third Row—Eva Mae Indoe, Jackie Duck, Betty Newcomer, Evelyn Norton, Donna Dull, Lizzie McKenzie, Effie McDougale, Betty Burr, Marian Allen, Glenna George.
 Fourth Row—Blake Carr, Edward Strouse, Charles Emerson, Donna Norton, Ada McDougale, Milo Aukerman, LaVerle Kauffman, Noble Flory.
 Absent: Glenn Kaufman, Betty Young, and Elsie Mullet.

Third Grade

First Row—Gwenivere Miller, Rose Marie Weltmer, Helen Cook, Mary Hagans, Eleanore McVicker, Paul Shriver, Dallas McDaniel.
 Second Row—Stanley Dague, Harold McGrady, Gordon Warnes, George Zimmerman, Jolan Knecht, Laura Cash, Joyce Underwood, Larry House, Don L. Reynolds, Miss Dressler.
 Third Row—Howard Truckovich, Herald Shaw, Billy Bittner, Chester Remington, Pauline Straub, Lois Gorey, Eleanor Yergin, Phyllis Brinker, Philip Norton.

Fourth Grade

On Monday morning, September 9, twenty-four girls and twelve boys with bright eager faces anxiously awaited the ringing of the bell when school should begin. During the year no pupils withdrew while one entered in October—LaVerle Kauffman from Dalton, Ohio.

Anxious were the pupils for their new books. They wanted to explore what was hidden between their covers.

In the fourth grade, social science and physical education are added to the course of study. Happy were the children when the day came for them to make their first trip to the gymnasium.

Several interesting and worthwhile projects in geography have been completed. Some have made scrapbooks showing the ways of living of the people who live in one of the countries which they have visited in their imaginary journeys. Others made scrapbooks of their country. During the year, they also built an oasis town such as you would see in the Sahara Desert.

Perhaps the most interesting unit was that on the Netherlands. Having quite a broad background of life in the Netherlands, they made a freize of Holland. Another group of children wrote and presented to the class a playlet in which the social life of the Van Kassen family was presented. Some of the girls dressed dolls in quaint Dutch costume, while the boys built Dutch windmills.

However, this school year has not been all work. The children have had good times as well. Hallowe'en found each child in costume—some amusing and clever. Much pleasure was derived from having the teacher guess the identity of each child. There was also the Christmas tree with the usual decorations and with its gifts for the exchange. Valentine day approached with a bulging large red and white box.

The fourth grade together with the third grade presented "Christmas Everywhere" in the grade Christmas program. The children also participated in the grade operetta, "The Cobbler and the Elves."

Reading was one of their favorite leisure time activities. Many of these boys and girls have read all the books in the fourth grade library. This was supplemented three times with books from the Medina library.

Several of the children have read eighty books. Many have read at least forty books. Their reading has covered a wide range of subjects. However, stories about children in other lands and science stories were those which were the most fascinating and most frequently read.

Third Grade

On September 9, 1940, twenty-six eager and curious boys and girls entered the third grade. "What do we do in the third grade? What books will be studied? Will there be any new pals in our room? These and many other questions undoubtedly ran through their minds.

With the distribution of books came a period of real exploration. Exciting pictures and interesting stories lurked between the covers of such readers as "Through the Green Gate," "Elson Reader," and "If I Were Going."

Safety lessons in a palatable form came in the bright orange book entitled "Here and There." Science facts were fun when studied from "Science Stories." The first glimpse of how people work and live was gathered from an interesting geography, "Neighborhood Stories." Friday morning was always a special time as "My Weekly Reader" arrived with its current news stories as well as Uncle Ben's travel letters. In addition to these, arithmetic, spelling, English, music, and art helped to make each day varied, busy, and pleasant.

As an outgrowth of a postoffice unit, the class visited the Lodi Postoffice where they actually saw the mail handled. The cancelling machine seemed most interesting to the children.

In October as Hallowe'en approached, plans were made for a party. The children had an exciting time seeing each other in costume.

During the Christmas season the third grade room changed appearance with the construction of a pupil-made fireplace in the northwest corner of the room. Toys marched playfully along the top of the blackboard. A Christmas tree and gift exchange climaxed the happy season.

In the month of February much fun came with the planning and making of a unique Valentine box in the form of a castle. Each child shared in the contents of this box.

The spring operetta, "The Cobbler and the Elves" gave many of the third graders a chance to sing and dance. Gordon Warnes, Jolan Knecht, Laura Cash, Gwenivere Miller, and Joyce Underwood had special parts, while many others sang in the chorus.

Second Grade

First Row—Donald Repp, Patsy Harris, Donald Cash, Claude Whitacre, Raymond Ling, Janet Barsic, Harold Hershberger, Anna McKenzie.

Second Row—Gerald Klinec, Junior Mathys, Ernest Lance, Dean Remington, Donald Ray Nell, Bernard Whitmore, Ruth Moore, Margaret Emerson, Charlot Weimer, Lucille Repp.

Third Row—Betty Nell, Betty Jo Travis, Sara Jane Lawton, Anita Indoe, Gordon Hartzell, Edward White, Robert Lowry, Jimmy Crum, June Stanley, Franklin Rice, Doris Ginter, Mrs. Whitney.

Children absent: Alice Jean Mullet, Jackie Lee Truex.

First Grade

First Row—Boyd Massie, Robert Underwood, Sally Blackburn, Sonya Eaken, Donna McGarvey, Danny Ziegler, Richard Warner.

Second Row—James Yoxtheimer, Hattie Ann Klinec, Dora Zimmerman, Nancy Kaufman, Viola Spradling, Gordon Musser, Francis Cook, Harriett Shaw.

Third Row—Robert Travis, Marilyn Imhoff, Edward Spade, Mary Emerson, Blake Garra, Billy Gossard, Dale Hagans, Miss DeLong.

Children absent: Junior Warner.

Second Grade

Thirty-one children enrolled in our grade last September. Patsy Harris entered our group from Weslaco, Texas and Charles Hullhorst moved to Toledo.

We have improved our reading through the use of library books. The following children have read and reported to the class fifteen or more books: Anita Indoe; Edward White, Gordon Hartzell, Jimmy Crum, Robert Lowery, Donald Ray Nell, Patsy Harris, Betty Nell, and Margaret Emerson. We have enjoyed many books from the Medina Library and also several good books which were added to our library this year. In our regular class work we have read eight readers.

When we studied about Indian Life in the fall we wrote letters to an Indian school on a reservation in North Dakota.

A Class Hygiene record was kept which showed progress made in dental care and good appearance. At the end of the year certificates of award from the Ipana Tooth Paste Co. were given to each of the ten children with the best dental hygiene record.

Twelve children who were found to be under weight were given cod liver oil all winter, with the result of fewer colds and absences from school.

We have enjoyed parties at Hallowe'en, Christmas, Valentine's Day and Easter. We have taken part in the Christmas program, the Toy Band, and six of our children were ponies in the Operetta.

After reading about fire prevention in our Safety Readers, we visited the Lodi Fire Station. Mr. Slater, the fire chief explained the work of firemen and the fire engine.

Under the direction of Mr. Blain we made a frieze on "Life in Holland," as a result of a study of that country.

We learned to salute our flag every day and we are glad to be Americans. We want to become good citizens.

Mrs. Whitney was our teacher.

First Grade

On September 9, 1940, twenty-nine boys and girls entered Lodi school for the first time. Some were eager, talkative and alert, some shy and reserved, others came with fear and trembling, and still others were silent and indifferent—twenty-nine distinctly different personalities, about to begin their first year of school.

When asked why they wanted to come to school, the most frequent reply was, "To learn to read." To that end they have completed five pre-primers and two primers and are now enjoying their eighth book for the year. In addition, nearly every child has done some reading in library books.

Early in the year Tommy Maklebus returned to his former home in Columbus, while Barbara Nottage and Inez Sandusky moved to Toledo. Later Richard Shelhorn went to Chatham, and Donald Sanford to Spencer, reducing the enrollment to twenty-four.

The First Graders were fortunate in being able to avail themselves of a good health program at school. Due to the efforts of the Rotary Club and the County Health Department, those who so desired were immunized for smallpox, diphtheria and whooping cough. Cod liver oil was also available and about half of the group took advantage of the opportunity.

Two of the highlights of the year were the Christmas program and the spring Music program, in which the first six grades participated. First and Second Graders joined in giving a Christmas playlet while their contribution to the Music program was a rhythm band. The major tragedy of the year was an epidemic of chicken pox which made Christmas less merry for several children, and the attendance irregular for a month after vacation.

Miss Mildred DeLong was the teacher.

Debate

Six bewildered seniors were chosen to fight off the enemy and keep the Lodi High banner flying. The very timely question was "Should the Power of the Federal Government be Increased?" The affirmative team was supported by Joanne Rice and Jean Sommer, first and second speakers respectively with Bob McGarvey as alternate. The negative team included Eileen Warner as first speaker, Edward Harrington, second speaker, and Jean Smith as alternate.

With Mr. Skurvid's assistance, the debate speeches finally took shape. The team began to learn what it was all about. They also had the advantage of being able to record their voices on the recording machine. Miss Mowrey helped some of the debate members with their dramatic and debate tactics.

After many sleepless nights, after much fretting, working and coaching, the team was ready for its campaign. Two initial skirmishes occurred January 10th when the affirmative team defeated the LeRoy negative team by a unanimous vote and the negative team defeated the Seville affirmative team with a unanimous vote also. Did the teams stop working? No, they considered it a streak of luck and worked right on, for they were determined to win for Lodi High. One major battle occurred January 15th when the affirmative team advanced to Hinckley and came marching back with another unanimous victory. January 16th, the negative team protected the home forts against Homer's affirmative team. Homer was finally driven home. Lodi had won, but this time by a two to one decision. The campaign was won and again Lodi's banners were flying. For the second consecutive year Lodi had won the County Championship, and the school received a trophy. Reward for the team and their helpers? A delicious chicken dinner and a pleasant evening at the White home. They were entertained by a movie, news reels of past school days and the main feature of "Felix the Cat."

There is just one thing the team would like to know—Should the Power of the Federal Government be Increased or Shouldn't it? If you can figure it out, let the debate team know.

Student Council

Lodi High School Student Council members, like doctors, are on call at all times to assist in whatever they may be called upon to do—taking tickets at football games, collecting money for basketball bus tickets, or presiding at assemblies.

One of the chief tasks of the Council is seeing that club meetings, parties, and class activities are not all planned for the same room and at the same time.

It is at the Council meetings that students may express their opinions or desires as well as introduce suggestions to the council.

Another major task of this group is the arranging of the assembly programs for the entire student body. From assembly programs, the Council turned to a new innovation this year in planning a ping pong tournament to select the all-school champion "ping ponger."

The Council is made up of representatives of the junior and senior high classes—the junior high is represented by three members—one from each class; and the senior high by six members—two from each class. These nine organized and with their faculty advisor tried to cooperate in whatever manner they could in working for a better school.

Dramatic Club

Activity has been the middle name of the dramatic club as they have produced not one play but three major productions. The first production was the well known play "The Doctor Decides" by Dr. Fred Eastman which was presented before the Lodi Rotary Club. It was in this play that some of the new members were initiated and proved themselves worthy of membership in the club.

December came and with the arranging and planning of the Christmas program at which time the very unusual and lovely play "The Gift of Myrrh" by Karin Sunderlof-Asbrand was presented to a very appreciative audience.

On April 4 the annual three-act play "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" by Charles George won many honors for both the club and the cast who had worked untiringly to present an evening of good entertainment. The cast included Doris Fetzer, Barbara Whitright, Bob McGarvey, Eileen Warner, Marjorie Piatt, Gerald Patterson, John Snell, Eugene Kobb, Janice Briggs, Gladine Tanner, Dick Crum, and Jane Rumbaugh. Those prominent in assisting with the production were Miss Lucille Mowrey, Jean Sommer, Janet Bartholomai, Doris Sommer, Jean Smith, Dorothy Travis, Joanne Rice, Marilyn Barnhart, Jane Warner.

Girls' Athletic Association

The Girls' Athletic Association was carried on for its third consecutive year with a large group of girls participating. The officers for the year were: Norma Whitemyer, president; Joanne Rice, vice president; Jane Rumbaugh, secretary; Jane Warner, treasurer. Miss Heestand was the adviser.

Each year the club is active in numerous sports including volleyball, basketball, deck tennis, softball, badminton, and ping-pong, each of which gives a certain number of points to be credited to each girl toward a letter which is awarded when she has earned a sufficient number of points.

In the annual all-star Yale-Princeton basketball game this spring Princeton won with a score of 14-8. The winning team included Eileen Warner, captain, Ruth Beu, Donna McDaniel, Marjorie Piatt, Doris Sommer, Jean Sommer, Joanne Smith, Vivian Elliott, and Betty Fetzer. Ann Bartholomai was captain of the Yale team, and the other members were Janet Bartholomai, Norma Tawse, Norma Whitemyer, Barbara Whitright, Alethia Davis, Virginia Rice, Martha Rice, and Marjorie Bowers.

Twenty-four girls entered a double-elimination tournament in ping-pong. After losing her first game in the first round of play Marjorie Piatt won the tourney by beating the other finalist, Doris Sommer, 21-17 and 21-11.

This is the first year that badminton has been one of the G. A. A. sports, and it has proven to be quite a favorite. Fourteen teams played in the badminton double elimination tourney. Marjorie Piatt and Doris Sommer beat Barbara Whitright and Janet Bartholomai in the final game.

This organization not only improves the girls physically but also stimulates them mentally, especially in teaching them good sportsmanship and cooperation with others.

Music

A solo here, a horn there, everywhere music! Yes, practice makes perfect and so pupils of Old Lodi High must keep practicing; and as a result music has come to be a very vital part of our high school work. The many numerous music interests are cared for through band, orchestra, chorus, quartet, sextets, ensembles, and everything—even the learning to appreciate music which, by the way, is a new course this year under the director of Mr. F. W. R. Behrens. This is designed to help those who enjoy music but do not play an instrument as well as those who do play or sing.

Thursday morning brings to our ears the music of our very popular band of sixty-four pieces under the baton of Mr. Delmar Graff. This band, one of the finest in the county, has made numerous public appearances and has won high respect for itself and leader from the citizens of the community. So successful with their public performances were they that they raised sufficient money to purchase uniforms.

On Tuesday morning can be heard violins, trumpets, saxes, etc. which tells us that it is orchestra day and another visit of Mr. Graff who also directs the orchestra. This too, is an ever growing group of players.

On Friday, we find some of these orchestra people along with eighty other voices filling the auditorium with their melodious tones under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Hobart. It is a real task to handle eighty people in a mixed chorus and keep them singing in tune and sweetly but she has done a splendid piece of work. We find Mrs. Hobart not only handling this group but the boy's glee club which of course is somewhat smaller (34 in number—quality rather than quantity, they say). The spring music festival saw this group participating and helping to make it a grand success.

The girls' glee club which outnumbers the boys' has a membership of sixty voices that are under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Schmidt. They too, entered the music festival.

As there are demands from time to time for smaller groups, the quartet, sextet, and ensemble have been organized.

Of these we see Mrs. Schmidt coaching the Girls' Sextet, (made up of Carol Burr, Janet Bartholomai, Eileen Warner, Janice Briggs, Ann Bartholomai, and Norma Whitemyer) which sings for such occasions as the Mother-Daughter Banquet, Commencement, etc. This group was rated superior minus at the ensemble contest this year at Spencer.

Did you hear that "basso"—well, that came from the Boys' Quartet (John Winkler, Joe Leatherman, John Snell, and Junior Marvin) which has really gained quite a reputation for itself in the last two years. Mrs. Hobart assists these members in their harmonizing.

"Pinky, Pinky, Pink, Pink, Pink, Pink," did you hear that? Yes, you guessed it—that came from the Mixed Octet consisting of Marcia Priest, Carol Burr, Norma Whitemyer, Marjorie Piatt, John Snell, Winfred McVicker, Joe Leatherman, and Burton Bowman. They too sang this year under Mrs. Hobart's direction, and earned a superior rating at the ensemble contest.

One of the outstanding county music activities each year is that of the solo contest which is held at a different school each year. This is a busy time since those wishing to enter must have their selection approved by Mrs. Hobart, Mrs. Schmidt, Mr. Graff, or Mr. Gingery. The contest is for both instrumental and vocal; and the ratings of superior, excellent, very good, good and fair are received by the participants. This affords an excellent opportunity for pupils to have experience in performing before an audience; and the pupils who are working for music awards of A, B, or C, must enter this contest at least once.

This year from the student body, certain members were selected to participate in the new county chorus which consisted of eighty voices under the direction of Mr. Behrens assisted by Mrs. Schmidt at the piano. This group was the nucleus of the chorus of 600 which sang at the spring Music Festival at Seville, May 9th. Those representatives from Lodi were: John Snell, Junior Marvin, Joe Leatherman, Winfred McVicker, Ann Bartholomai, Eileen Warner, Norma Whitemyer, Marcia Priest, and Carol Burr.

We are indeed proud of all our music activities and we hope they will continue to develop.
